Alaska Native Cancer Survivorship Project

Collaboration Between
Fairbanks Native Association and
University of Alaska Fairbanks – Center for Alaska Native Health Research

This project supports cancer survivors, their friends and family when dealing with cancer. “Hopeful Connections” began in 2010 and continues today. Hopeful Connections members share their stories, support, and knowledge through support group sessions, projects and community engagement.

Hopeful Connections four main goals are:

1. SAFE: Providing a safe environment for sharing and caring
2. FACTUAL: Sharing factual cancer information
3. TRUST: Promoting trust in cancer and other health-related research
4. AWARENESS: Providing awareness about the strengths and needs of cancer survivors

Through our support group sessions, projects and community engagement:

· We host gatherings that encourage positive and hopeful outlooks.
· We strive NOT to be dependent on external funding.
· We continue to expand our outreach of support.
· We try to find ways for cancer survivors to utilize their own cancer experience to help others.
· We meet every 2-3 weeks.
· We offer many opportunities for community engagement, such as Hopeful Connections Relay for Life Team.
· We focus on our Alaska Native family, but our doors are open to all.

This collaborative effort supports the idea that individuals supporting each other through the diagnosis, treatment and healing process is necessary.
Dear Membership,

Under the direction of our committed Board of Directors, through our dedicated staff and alongside our community partners, we look to the 46th year of Fairbanks Native Association with excitement as we continue to strengthen our programs.

This past year has brought many opportunities for growth and success for our organization. The Johnson O’Malley Program received funding to expand our tutoring services within the Fairbanks North Star Borough School District.

Our Community Services Program welcomes new funding under the support of the Department of Justice, Office of Violence against Women. This training grant will focus on the issue of violence against our Elder women.

Within our Behavioral Health Programs, we continue to analyze the successes and challenges of all our programs to lead us in a strong direction to better serve our community. We are proud to announce the Recovery and Re-Entry Program that will support individuals through the application and employment process.

I am proud to report that under this Administration, our organization continues to make financial decisions that are mindful of our membership, programs and staff. In addition, FNA continues to increase our capacity that will provide for additional organizational sustainability.

“As we continue to move forward in a positive direction with the guidance of our Board of Directors, we are prepared for the challenges ahead, while we continue to promote our mission.”

Steve Ginnis
Executive Director
Dear Membership,

I have enjoyed my first year as President of Fairbanks Native Association. I began working with the organization when my son was enrolled in the FNA Head Start Program five years ago. I was first elected to the Head Start Policy Council and then to the Board of FNA. I have attended the Elders lunch at FNA’s Community Services Program several times and enjoy visiting with my mother-in-law, along with many of my grandmothers and grandfathers. It has been a valuable learning experience and an honor to serve our membership in the Fairbanks area.

This past year, our Board has worked so hard towards focusing on the future of FNA. The Board has met several times to discuss FNA’s five-year Strategic Plan. This is a liquid document that changes as our needs and events progress. I’m proud of our Board for putting exciting plans into motion. I’m also proud of our management for addressing many issues promptly and professionally.

Many of the goals have already been meet, but after conducting a survey, we thought a major concern was the lack of knowledge the Fairbanks membership has on the services we provide. Our Board felt this was an area that should be improved since we have so much to offer. We take pride in our programs that serve our elders, tutor our school children, provide home-visiting for babies, head start programs for toddlers, supports our cancer survivors and provides behavioral health services. To remedy this, FNA created informational commercials about services that FNA provides. We will continue to reach out to members in the Fairbanks area and those planning to move to the Fairbanks area.

We are very proud of the fiscally conscious way that FNA has performed in recent years. The ability that FNA has shown in a continuing trend toward financial health is a result from the close relationship of our Board and management working together. We continue to improve and maintain fiscal policies, while improving our financial stability.

I would encourage anyone living within the Fairbanks area to run for the Board or attend a Board meeting. It is not only interesting, but also a rewarding service towards our community. Thank you for your support of Fairbanks Native Association and I wish you all health and wellness in the coming year.

Spotlight on
Janet Flaherty
Breast Cancer Survivor

“The support we get from each other is proof that we are part of a much bigger picture than ourselves.”

Janet is an Inupiaq and was born and raised in Fairbanks. Her parents were the late Dale Dahl and Bertha Newman. Janet is the oldest of six children; she has four sisters and one brother. Being the oldest in the family, she helped to raise her younger siblings. Janet and her late husband Jim raised their two daughters Erika and Kiana. Janet lost her beloved son Dale to a tragic incident. She has two beautiful grandsons Miles and Calvin. Janet has two dogs Sweet-Pea and Peter-Max and she considers them to be her additional children.

In her younger years, Janet worked all over the state of Alaska. She was employed at various canneries, was a cook during the pipeline days and also for one of the FNA programs. Now that Janet is retired, she loves to travel the world. She has traveled to Italy, London, Great Britain and she continues to travel to Mexico regularly. Janet also enjoys sewing, knitting and cooking. She also takes much pride in being a helping hand to her family. Janet is always helping others in need and always has her door open.

Detection

In the mid 90’s, Janet went in for a routine mammogram. Janet’s results showed a small lump in her breast and she was diagnosed with breast cancer. She remembers not being able to feel the lump. At that time, Janet had to travel to Anchorage for all of her medical care. She underwent a lumpectomy and radiation treatments. Janet’s husband was working and she decided to travel to Anchorage on her own.

“When I was diagnosed, God was with me and He never left me, I had no worries and it was so weird to be so calm at that time.”

“I remember being diagnosed on a Friday and going to church on Sunday. I prayed and felt this strong presence around me, like God was holding me and it calmed me.”

Janet had a relapse nine years ago and had to undergo surgery.

Janet came across an invite for Hopeful Connections. She decided to attend some gatherings. She stated that she grew up in a time where it was not appropriate to talk about certain things. This support group opened the door to all the feelings about cancer.

Janet says that “The gatherings are such a good support for those just starting out with their diagnosis, it’s good to get knowledge from those that have already been through it.”

“After attending the group gatherings, it gives you a release, knowing that there others who went through the same thing.” Janet says the support system provided at Hopeful Connections is needed in our Native community.
Beverly, a Gwich’in originally from Fort Yukon, is the daughter of Richard and Eva Carroll. Beverly is the oldest of 12 children which include seven girls and four boys. Beverly and her husband Mark have three children; Greg, Damen and Tammy. They are also blessed with three grandchildren; Aiden, Carter and Emily. Beverly has been employed at Chief Andrew Isaac Health Center in the Health Information’s Management Department since 1985.

Detection

In 2004, Beverly’s results from her blood sugar were high; she was then added to the diabetic list. Following proper protocol, she had to complete a mammogram. The result of Beverly’s mammogram showed she had breast cancer. By May 2004, Beverly had surgery which was followed by rounds of chemo therapy and radiation. She received her last cancer treatment in January of 2005.

“Having very supportive family, friends, and church is what really saw me through my cancer, and most importantly my faith in God.”

As Beverly was going through her rounds of treatment for breast cancer, she never gave up on her faith in God. Mark, Beverly’s husband, was her biggest supporter through it all. Beverly said that without her loving support system, she wouldn’t have been as strong as she was.

Her Sister Fannie would come and sit by her side during the chemo sessions, although at the time Beverly didn’t realize the impact this would have, but it meant so much. Her church was such a huge support, they provided a dinner the first four nights of each chemo session. Beverly’s cousin, Lois, would bring her moose broth and Beverly states, “I would just live on it, it gave me strength and energy”. During Beverly’s chemo, as she started losing her hair, she asked her son Damen to shave her head. Beverly’s, son and husband then shaved their own heads. Beverly’s late sister Kathy brought her wig shopping in Anchorage. Beverly was reluctant at first, but once there with the different wigs, she felt empowered. She was surprised at how good the wig made her feel and it really boosted her morale at that time. Beverly began to repay that favor after her recovery; when she brought other patients out wig shopping, and she really enjoyed doing this.

“Hopeful Connections gave us a safe place to open up and talk about cancer; to not be ashamed or embarrassed of cancer, or what it put us through.”

Beverly still attends Hopeful Connections Support Group in Fairbanks. “I’m very happy we have a group like this, it’s a place of support, for people who had family or friends who have gone through cancer and survived or maybe not survived. This group is not only for survivors, but also for friends and families impacted by cancer.”

Beverly explains when growing up, we are taught not to talk about certain things, disease was one of them. Beverly believes that this communication that happens in the group is the best thing about Hopeful Connections. Beverly explains, “When I was told my biopsy came back malignant, I was in a state of shock. This was something I didn’t want to keep inside to myself.”

She was pleased to see people talk about their feelings and share experiences that they normally wouldn’t talk about with others.

“At Hopeful Connections, there are a lot of different emotions, we can talk, laugh, then cry and then laugh again. It’s amazing to watch others enter the group and work through their anger. Some people don’t come back, but others do.”

Behavioral Health Services

Behavioral Health Services (BHS) is an oversight of all FNA’s substance abuse programs. We continue to focus on providing quality care for all our consumers. We have made significant strides to improve our capabilities, as well as identifying our strengths, to insure that our consumers receive the treatment services necessary for their continuation to maintain sober lives. We have increased the number of people we serve over the past year. Also, our evaluation and consumer surveys show that our consumers have seen a positive impact from their treatment to maintaining sober lifestyles from the quality of our service.

In the past year, BHS has made significant accomplishments from our 2012 strategic plan. The intent for our 2012 BHS Strategic plan was to maintain momentum towards the vision and adherence to the departments Guiding Principles. In addition, our goals are to improve our case management system, strengthen evaluation, develop an aggressive outreach program, as well as several other goals to improve clinical services. We have successfully implemented a new Electronic Health Record for Ralph Perdue Center, Women & Children’s and Graf which will enable us to improve our records management. BHS received a new grant for the “Workforce Recovery & Re-Entry Project,” which will promote long-term recovery by assisting consumers in becoming self-sufficient. The project’s goal is to provide the tools necessary to reenter the workforce. BHS also received a State grant (SPF-SIG) which allows us to work on prevention opportunities related to Under Age Drinking and Adult Binge Drinking.

In the coming year, we will look forward to enhancing our behavioral health services and continue to promote healthy lifestyles.

FNA has fully integrated Women and Children Center for Inner Healing (WCCIH) and the new Pregnant and Postpartum Women’s Federal Grant (PPW) called “The Sacred Child Project” to strengthen the healing process for participating women and their children. A family approach has been adopted by a strong team that combines staff and consultants to promote substance abuse recovery, family reunification and community support for aftercare. This new partnership is now able to house twelve adult residents, plus their children aged 0-7. Consumers attend classes and groups together; while exploring their strengths, they seek community support for a healthy recovery, by re-connecting with their families and cultural traditions.

Program Highlights

WCCIH and Sacred Child were fully integrated as a balanced recovery approach and as a treatment team with a focus on Trauma Informed Care.

Beyond Trauma became a primary part of the Treatment Curriculum for WCCIH & PPW.

WCCIH and PPW work together with Early Head Start to help women and their children.

In 2012, WCCIH and Sacred Child graduated 17 women from their programs and re-united all but one of the graduates with their children. Three children were born to residents while in treatment and 33 children lived with their mothers while in treatment. The PPW staff referred 4 mothers and/or their children to Hope Counseling for Family and/or Child Therapy.

WCCIH and PPW worked together to implement and utilize the new FNA Electronic Health Record System.

PPW staff increased the capacity of WCCIH to: provide services, meet the demands of a changing population, and build relationships with community providers and State agencies such as the Office of Children’s Services and Adult Probation.

Cultural activities continue to be a vital part of WCCIH that promotes recovery and community sober support by re-connecting families with their cultural values, interests and support for the healing process.

PPW hosted an open house at WCCIH to help build relationships with community providers, State Agency staff along with FNA employees.

PPW Staff hosted/sponsored a two day, State-wide, Trauma Informed Care Training.

"I think I can appreciate life more."

"That’s the only thing I can really see. To help others, just be here and present for others and be a witness and let them know, you can survive."

"Because I’ve been through the treatment. I’ve been through the radiation. I’ve been through the surgeries and I’ve had my ups and downs."

"You can’t get well if you think you’re dying. Can you?"

"I survived a lot of stuff, you know? That’s why I am a survivor. No quitting."

"I survived it once and I probably could survive it again."

"I leave everything to the Lord. If He wants me, I know it’s my time to go."

"Just living and hoping that somebody helps other people find cure and treatments."

"What kept me going was my Native food when I got my appetite back."

"I think cancer patients need a lot more help than just getting the cancer treatment; like the chemotherapy and whatnot."

"Oh, it’s amazing what a little bowl of soup will do."

"So, it would have been nice to say, this is what you have, and this is how we’re going to treat it."

"It’s NOT the end of the world basically, and that’s what I thought. I thought my world ended, but it didn’t."
