PRESS RELEASE: Update on FNA's 2020 Annual Membership Meeting

FNA Contact: Steve Ginnis, Executive Director, 907-452-1648

Fairbanks, Alaska - I want to let our membership know we are looking at ways to hold our annual meeting later this year. At this time, we still feel it is not safe to hold a large gathering, and it is not recommended by the Department of Health and Social Services or the Centers for Disease Control.

FNA senior management, the board of directors and I want to make sure holding such a large public event is safe for everyone, especially our elders, during this pandemic. We will continue to monitor guidelines from DHSS and CDC, and will keep our membership informed as the situation changes.

We will continue to plan the annual meeting and board elections for a time when we can keep everyone safe.

I urge everyone to practice hand hygiene, wear a mask in public and practice social distancing.

-Steve Ginnis, FNA executive director.
