FNA Head Start conducting community assessment to understand needs

Contact: Fran Cachucha, 907-452-1648, ext. 6730, or fcachucha@fairbanksnative.org

Fairbanks, Alaska—FNA Head Start is conducting a community assessment that will help identify needed services for young children and their caretakers.

The assessment asks questions about, among other things,

- Family
- Transportation
- Healthcare
- Housing
- Employment
- Income
- Childcare needs
- Barriers to services
- Opinions about FNA Head Start

Answers will help early childhood educators, planners, and administrators understand the needs of the community. Results will help revitalize our early learning program and to provide necessary outreach for families and community. The data will allow FNA staff to give accurate and timely reporting the Office of Head Start.
